Synopsis

SkateKey presents twenty-two childhood stories told by men and women connected by a metal gadget, the skatekey, a popular tool used to make a roller-skate fit onto a skater's shoe. This collection of memoirs emphasizes diversity- multicultural and religious family backgrounds. Each roller-skating story takes place during a specific time period in American history: The Great Depression-1920s-1930s, World War II-The 1940s, The 1950s, The Civil Rights Movement-1960s, and The 1970s. Some stories are funny while others present the hardships and struggles of children growing up during difficult times. SkateKey arouses nostalgia and includes authentic photos of the times and places represented in the stories. --This text refers to the Kindle Edition edition.

Jennifer Ranu is a professor in the Department of Curriculum and Teaching at Montclair State University in New Jersey where she is a teachers' teacher. She has served as an educator in urban and suburban school districts in New Jersey for thirty-five years touching the lives of countless numbers of children and having her life touched by them as well. SkateKey marks Jennifer's debut as a book author. She is currently writing her memoir, Teacher's Teachers and is the CEO of Jennifer Lee Creations. --This text refers to the Paperback edition.

I'm in the midst of reading it but if you ever had a skate key this is the book for you especially if you grew up in the 40's in the city. Many memories will come back.
