Ann Kondo Corum was born in Honolulu and graduated from Punahou School. She has a degree in English from California State University at Long Beach and a Master of Science degree from the University of Southern California. She is the author-illustrator of Easy Cooking the Island Way, Only in Hawaii, Hawaii's SPAM Cookbook, and Hawaii's 2nd SPAM Cookbook, as well as two books for children, Aunty Pua's Keiki Cookbook and Aunty Pua's Dilemma.

I bought this book as a joke for my husband who actually loves Spam. I was surprised to find some good recipes in it as well and he likes the book.

wanted a fun recipe book for my son who loves to work with interesting recipes... so what more interesting than Hawaii's love affair with Spam? He is also a computer science graduate and writes game code so the 'spam' thing has been a 'geek' joke in our household.

Excellent recipe book that gives many new ideas on food preparation in different formats, with many novel ideas that one would not have thought !!

Gave to my son as a birthday gift. It's Spam at its Island's best

We all forget about the mystery meat but what a great cookbook, and of course it's the meat of Hawaii

AS stated.

I travel to Hawaii quite often and you see Spam everywhere. I thought this book would make a funny Christmas gift for my niece and that is why I bought it. There isn't anything in it you couldn't figure out for yourself--just substitute Span for any other meat and you'd get the general idea. But it's fun and inexpensive if you also want to give a mainlander a funny gift.

For Breakfast I have Spam. For Lunch, Spam, and for Dinner, Spam. This cookbook comes in real handy for my voracious appetite for Spam.
