Car Talk: The Greatest Stories Ever Told: Once Upon A Car Fire . . .

Synopsis

You decide to waste another perfectly good hour getting bogus car advice from the Car Talk guys when what should happen but some remark from the caller launches either Tom or Ray off topic and onto a story about The Sleek Black Beauty, their most recent wife, or their days at MIT.

Ever wacky, ever off-the-cuff, the Magliozzi brothers, hosts of the popular NPR program "Car Talk," present their favorite call-in tales and personal anecdotes from their show. It's hard to believe that these are the GREATEST stories and not just another installment in an excellent series of comedy radio moments from the two Massachusetts mechanics (who also hold multiple science degrees).

Whether it's dealing with a caller's "melted stick of butter on the dashboard" or other assorted automobile nightmares, bizarre events, and mishaps, "Click and Clack," as they call themselves, provide a warm and funny listen filled with their trademark self-deprecating humor. Plus a bit of advice! D.J.B. Â© AudioFile 2007, Portland, Maine-- Copyright Â© AudioFile, Portland, Maine with barely a speed bump in the road. I love listening to Car Talk on NPR, so when we had a family trip of a couple of hours I decided to get this for us to listen to on the way. Not all family members were familiar with Click and Clack, but by the time we reached our destination, they sure were. If the comments don't make you laugh, Tommy's cackle will. I'd heard some of the stories before but I still found them funny the second-- or third-- time around. I've since bought other compilations of Car Talk and we've enjoyed them all.

These guys could make describing a turnip funny. They get to laughing so hard that you just have to laugh...sometime you don't even know what they are talking about but you are laughing with them anyway. The car problems don't even have to be funny. We enjoy listening to the stories over and over and play the tapes for anyone who visits and seems to need cheering up! They deserve to retire as long as you continue to air the reruns!

My husband loves Car Talk and Garrison Keillor and listens to them every week on radio and when they are not on radio he is playing the CDs. He has a huge collection of books and CDs and I have listened to some so many times I could repeat them word for word. Please make some new ones !

if you like the tappet brothers and their show, you've got to get this. i wish they offered this in electronic format (mp3, wma, aac, whatever) to make this easier to use on modern day devices. the stories are a lot of fun and it's great the way they segway into these stories. i got them for a long road trip and the miles/times just vanished. we ended up listening to the CD three times during the road trip!look forward to more from them.

Love these. I'm sad that there won't be any new ones.

With the show now off the air, this had great nostalgia factor for me. Wonderful to have an re-listen to for years to come.

Really fun! My husband and I love this show. He enjoyed his birthday gift. Now, sadly we have a legacy of a truly wonderful show.
